Skin ageing explained

Why does your appearance change over time?

Though we grow in knowledge and grace as we age, gravity and time do change our appearance. Changes to the shape of your face – and your skin’s appearance – happen over time as facial skin strength and elasticity change, and fat, bone and cartilage loss occur.

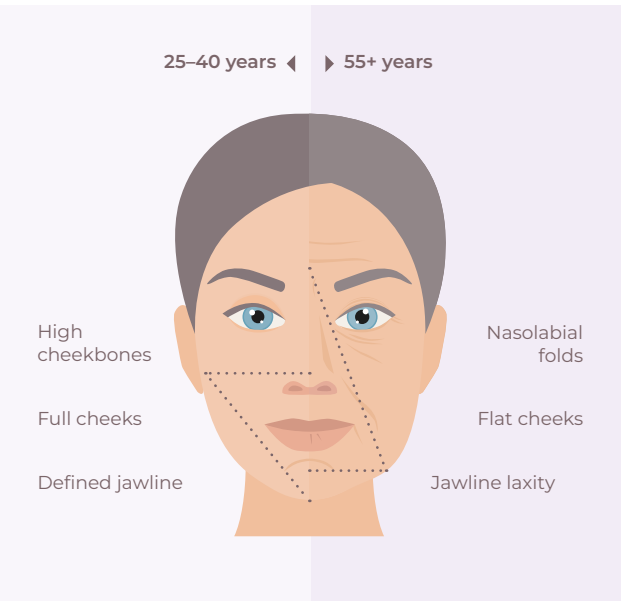

The external signs of ageing

There are three typical features of a younger-looking face: high cheekbones, full cheek volume and a well-defined jawline. As we get older, this triangular shape gradually reverses – you might start to notice flattened cheeks, more noticeable nasolabial folds (between the sides of the nose and the mouth) and a less-defined jawline.

Is it possible to defy time and gravity?

In a word, yes. Silhouette Soft delivers discreet gravity-defying effects, so you can say goodbye to the visible signs of ageing. As well as an instant lift, enhanced contours, and long-lasting results¹, it also provides gradual and sustained tissue regeneration by stimulating your natural collagen production – so your skin is rejuvenated and more youthful-looking from within.

Silhouette Soft versus other thread lift treatments

Not all threads are created equal. In fact, some offer more beautiful and long-lasting results¹ than others. When you choose Silhouette Soft, you choose threads made from medical grade materials. This matters because of the reaction it creates within your body.

Let's take a closer look...

Fullness that lasts longer

Though Silhouette Soft creates an instant lifting effect, it also triggers collagen production over time.

At first, your skin creates collagen type-III around the product site for around six months – this is the same for all injectables. But Silhouette Soft also triggers the production of type-I collagen – and that's the kind that stays around. In clinical trials, this fullness-stimulating natural reaction is still happening after 2 years¹ with Silhouette Soft.

Gentle and strong

What's more, exclusive 3D cone technology means your clinician is empowered to create more lift without the risk of damaging the thread, reducing the risk of surrounding tissue damage, resulting in a lower inflammatory effect compared to other threads.⁵

Silhouette Soft cones work in a way that interacts uniquely with your own tissue – giving more structure and strength where your aesthetician needs it.

Silhouette Soft threads' resistance to the tension applied in treatment has been proven in clinical trials demonstrating its safety profile.⁵

Combination treatments for enhanced results

The Silhouette Soft thread lift is often recommended by clinicians because it works so well with other treatments.

The ultimate combination²

If your skin has changed dramatically, your clinician can take your treatment further with a tailored three-step plan, using complementary injectable products by Sinclair.

STEP 1: Increase fullness and volume

Your aesthetic expert can use Ellansé,[®] a collagen stimulator, MaiLi,[®] or Perfectha,[®] HA fillers, before your thread lift to restore volume.

STEP 2: Lift and restore

Next, the Silhouette Soft thread lift is used to lift and recreate youthful contours.

STEP 3: Highlight and perfect

Finally, Ellansé, Perfectha or MaiLi[®] is used to add the final touches, topping up (in the case of Ellansé also stimulating) any areas where a little more volume might enhance your look – restoring youthful fullness and smoothing away lines and wrinkles.

Other treatments Silhouette Soft works beautifully alongside:

Botulinum neurotoxin

Ideally two weeks before the thread lift, botulinum neurotoxin can relax and smooth away fine lines, especially around the eyebrows and neck.

Skin tightening treatments

Treatments like Radiofrequency or IFU using energy-based devices (EBDs) are a fantastic foundation for a thread lift.⁶

Skin resurfacing treatments

EBDs like micro needling or mesotherapy work to improve the thickness of the skin, ideally two to four weeks after your thread lift.⁷

Fat reduction

Treatments like cryo and injection lipolysis can help to remove excess volume under the chin and around the neck before a Silhouette Soft lift.

Skin rejuvenation

Collagen type-I biostimulation with Ellansé will also greatly improve the duration and quality of the results.
